

Women's Silver on Campus

"Woman must not accept; she must challenge.
She must not be awed by that which has been built up around her; she must reverence that woman in her which struggles for expression."

Greetings from CCC Director

Hello!

On behalf of the Cross Cultural Centers at Cal State L.A., I extend a heartfelt greeting to you! We pride ourselves on being a vibrant, energetic, and supportive space for you. And I want to personally invite you to stop by and see how we're working to support you and vour dreams while at Cal State L.A. and beyond.

I invite you to stop by and tell me about yourself. At the same time, think about your plan of action while at Cal State L.A. Be intentional and focused on your success. Maybe you want to get more involved outside the classroom. Maybe you want deeper and more meaningful relationships with friends and teachers. Maybe you found yourself on the wrong path in another setting, but now you want to get on the right track at Cal State L.A.

The Cross Cultural Centers and the Gender & Sexuality Resource Center are a great place to start your journey to self-discovery and self-empowerment. There are a number of resources, people, and programs listed in this guide that can help you start your journey on the right path. Please don't struggle alone. So feel free to call on me and the other resources listed in this guide for support.

Take care and have a great year... and here's to your success at Cal State L.A.!

Best.

Greetings from GSRC Coordinator

On behalf of the Gender & Sexuality Resource Center (GSRC), I extend a greeting of familiar excitement, optimism, and intentional commitment towards nurturing self and community! As the Coordinator of the GSRC, I encourage you to use Cal State L.A.'s Guide to Women's Life on Campus as a reference for supportive organizations, resource pockets, and community building opportunities.

Originally founded in 1976 as the Women's Resource Center with a mission to empower and mobilize students around women's liberation. The GSRC strives to connect students, faculty, and staff through a shared intention of raising awareness on issues affecting women, men, and the LGBTQ community. We hope to increase visibility and promote the welfare and dignity of women and the LGBTQ community by providing a safe environment for social interaction and politically/socially conscious development. The GSRC also provides private space for breastfeeding and offers free counseling to all students.

I welcome all students, faculty, and interested persons to stop by the GSRC and join in alliance for fundamental rights, dignity, and Pride!

In solidarity Always...

Denise Carlos, MSW Coordinator

*Please note that we do not offer equipment or refrigerator space.

Womyn of Color Conference

The Gender & Sexuality Resource Center proudly organized our first annual Womyn of Color Conference (WOCC) in November 2009 with the objective of raising awareness of and about issues related to womyn of color. The conference holds a mission to celebrate the different ways womyn of color help make the world go round through the arts, political involvement, and community activism. We strive to encourage emerging leaders to feel empowered in addressing community issues that relate to gender and womyn's issues. The Womyn of Color Conference is CSULA community driven and is open to all CSULA students interested in exploring these issues.

For more information on how to get involved, contact Denise Carlos, MSW at (323) 343-5001, dcarlos@cslanet. calstatela.edu, or drop by the Gender & Sexuality Resource Center. ■

The Society of Women Engineers

The Society of Women Engineers (SWE), founded in 1950, is a non-profit educational and service organization. The SWE chapter at CSULA seeks to help support women in the studies of Engineering, and helps them progress and further their education in the field.

The SWE's mission is to stimulate women to achieve full potential in careers as engineers and leaders and help expand the image of the engineering profession as a positive force in improving the quality of life. SWE also has male members that help support the organization and support the number one goal for SWE, which is to demonstrate the value of diversity. The objective is to open the doors of SWE to young women so that they know of the many great opportunities available to women engineers.

Center for the Studies of Gender and Sexuality (CSGS)

The Centers for the Study of Genders and Sexualities is located in the Integrated Humanities Center and housed in the College of Arts and Letters at the California State University, Los Angeles. The mission of the Center for the Study of Genders and Sexualities (CSGS) is to provide support for scholars, teachers, students, and community partners who investigate gender and sexuality, in particular, work that bridges the diverse communities represented at Cal State L.A. and its surrounding area.

The Center for the Study of Genders and Sexualities lives at the intersections of gender, sexuality, race, ability, age, class, culture, and nation. We believe that knowledge flows from the connections among faculty, students, and the communities within and beyond the university.

We invite you to attend a CSGS event, make contact with one of our center experts if you have specific inquiries or educational/research needs, or apply for one of our faculty or student stipends in case you seek support in your own study of genders and sexualities.

Want to Get Involved?

CSGS welcomes ideas and assistance from students, staff, faculty and members of the wider community through: Lecture/Performance Series, Faculty-Research Discussion Series, Student Development Committee, Student Internships, Community Partnerships, Curriculum Revision Group, and Financial Support.

Center Programs for the Campus and the Community:

Fall, Winter, and Spring Quarterly Lecture, Performance Series:
The campus and community are invited to a series that features cutting edge speakers. Among our past presenters: Linda Martin Alcoff, Ruthie Gilmore, Cherrie Moraga, and Trinh T. Min-ha.

Annual Student Research Conference

"Gender, Sexuality, and Power": CSGS invites students to participate in our annual student research conference. This conference is an academic event intended to support students interested in gender, sexuality, queer, LGBT and women's studies.

Research Scholars Program:

CSGS offers the opportunity to participate in the community of scholars, instructors, and students at CSULA to scholars engaged in research related to genders or sexualities.

Curriculum Support:

CSGS houses a syllabus file and faculty across the university are involved in dialogues to continue building the curriculum in women, genders, and sexualities.

Additional Campus Programs:

Students interested in the study of genders and sexualities may wish to consult the Minor in Women's and Gender Studies, the General Education Upper Division Program (Gender Theme C), and the Gender & Sexuality Resource Center of the Cross Cultural Centers.

Women's and Gender Studies Minor

Women's & Cender Studies

Women's and Gender Studies is a thriving field of study at CSULA. Our location in the diverse metropolis of Los Angeles grounds our understanding of genders and sexualities as it intersects with races/ethnicities, nations, and classes in local, national, and global contexts.

Housed in the Department of Liberal Studies, CSULA offers a Major in Liberal Studies with a Concentration in Women's and Gender Studies (48 units plus the 20 unit core courses in Liberal Studies), an undergraduate Minor in Women's and Gender Studies (32 units) and a graduate/post-Baccalaureate Certificate in the Study of Women, Genders, and Sexualities (24 units). The Women's and Gender Studies Advisory Committee oversees program development and curricular growth.

The Liberal Studies Major with a Concentration in Women's and Gender Studies enables undergraduate students to undertake a focused course of study emphasizing theories and research in the field of Women's and Gender Studies. The concentration prepares students for careers in law, policy advocacy, teaching, and non-profit work. Students may also consider continuing their studies in an M.A. and/or Ph.D. program in areas such as History, English, Women's and Gender Studies, or American Studies.

A Minor in Women's and Gender Studies supplements a Major program in any field. Students may combine the Minor with a Major in History, Communication Studies, Chicana/o Studies, Sociology, Liberal Studies, Psychology, and Political Science. A Minor provides research skills and training useful for careers in law, medicine, criminal justice, social work, non-profit agencies, public relations, policy advocacy, and teaching.

Post-Baccalaureate students (those already holding a B.A. degree) will find that a Certificate in the Study of Women, Genders, and Sexualities can fulfill several career and educational goals. For students continuing on to M.A. or Ph.D. programs, the Certificate offers additional skills in research and teaching in the growing field of interdisciplinary Women's and Gender Studies. For those already in the workforce as social workers, policy analysts, service providers, organizational managers, and teachers, the Certificate offers additional skills in professional development and frameworks for thinking about topics such as social policy, pedagogy, and workplace equity.

If you are interested in pursuing a Major in Liberal Studies with the Concentration in Women's and Gender Studies, a Minor in Women's and Gender Studies, or the Certificate in the Study of Women, Genders, and Sexualities, please call (323) 343-4137 or (323) 343-4100, or contact Dr. Dionne Espinoza, Coordinator of the Minor and Certificate Programs, at despino@ calstatela.edu. ■

Distinguished Women Awards

The Distinguished Women Awards is an annual event which honors women faculty, staff, and administrators from Cal State L.A. for their many outstanding achievements and contributions to the community presented by The Gender & Sexuality Resource Center and Cross Cultural Centers in the University-Student Union.

The Distinguished Women are recognized for a variety of accomplishments. An annual selection committee looks at achievements in the nominee's field, significant contributions to Cal State L.A., commitment to students, commitment to women's issues, community involvement, and professional recognition. We welcome both self-nominations as well as nominations from faculty, administrators, staff, and students of outstanding women on campus. Nominees must be full-time employees of Cal State L.A. or its auxiliaries. Emerti faculty are eligible, however past Distinguished Women Award recipients are not eligible.

If you have any questions, please e-mail Frederick Smith at fsmith@cslanet.calstatela.edu or call (323) 343-5248.

Project Rape Aggression Defense Systems (R.A.D)

The Rape Aggression Defense (R.A.D.) Systems is a program of realistic self-defense tactics and techniques. It is a comprehensive, women-only course, which begins with awareness, prevention, risk reduction and risk avoidance, as well as the basics of hands-on defense training. R.A.D. is not a Martial Arts program. The courses are taught by nationally certified R.A.D. Instructors and provide each student with a workbook/reference manual. The course includes lecture, discussion and self-defense techniques, suitable for women of all ages and abilities. The basic physical defense program consists of four sessions lasting three hours each, for a total of twelve hours of instruction including a dynamic simulation. Please note that girls under age 13 may not participate due to the adult-themed subject matter.

Fees are $10 Cal State L.A. Students for and $20 Faculty, Staff, or Guests for. For more information on how to get involved, contact the Center for Student Involvement (CSI) at (323) 343.-5708.

The primary purpose of Project SAFE is to aid the University in creating and maintaining an environment that is free from sexual assault and the related dating/ domestic violence and stalking.

CSULA Programs

Project SAFE

Project SAFE is Cal State L.A.'s sexual violence prevention and intervention program. Project SAFE is a collaborative effort among the University's Student Health Center, University Police, Cross Cultural Centers, Center for Student Involvement; and operational community partners, the East Los Angeles Women's Center, Los Angeles District Attorney's Office, Los Angeles City Attorney's Office, and LAC+USC Medical Center.

The primary purpose of Project SAFE is to aid the University in creating and maintaining an environment that is free from sexual assault and the related dating/domestic violence and stalking. Specifically, Project SAFE's partners aim to: help reduce the perpetration of campus-related incidents; ensure victims receive appropriate care, information about their options and legal rights, and access to campus and community services; and assist the University in its efforts to comply with related federal and state legislation.

Project SAFE was originally established through a grant (No. 2002-WA-BX-0012) awarded by the Office on Violence Against Women, Office of Justice Programs, U.S. Department of Justice. Points of view in this document are those of the author and do not necessarily represent the official position or policies of the U.S. Department of Justice.

Project SAFE Sexual Violence Prevention and Intervention

California State University, Los Angeles (Cal State L.A.) is committed to creating and maintaining an environment that is free from sexual assault and other forms of violence. Unfortunately, sexual assault and the often related dating and domestic violence and stalking are a reality for some of our students and employees.

Sexual Violence

Sexual assault is the most common violent crime committed on university campuses in the United States. The victimization rate for college women is 28 rapes per 1,000 female students. It is estimated that more than 350 assaults may be experienced by women at an institution of higher education whose female student population numbers 10,000. For a university such as Cal State L.A. with an estimated 12,500 enrolled women this could mean this could mean 440 rapes and other sexual assaults this year. An estimated 10% of collegiate sexual assault victims are male.

Sexual assault is often linked with dating/domestic violence (also known as intimate partner violence) and stalking. Each year, almost 5 million physical and sexual assaults are committed against women by their intimate partners. The highest rates of domestic violence are associated with college age women. Domestic violence is also committed against men. Each year 3 million assaults are perpetrated against men by their intimate partners.

In the most recent as well as largest U.S. study of non-fatal stalking almost 3.5 million individuals were found to have been stalked in the preceding year. The highest victimization rates were experienced by women and men 18-24 years of age.

Some students, female and male, are survivors of childhood rape and abuse.

What College Student's Should Know

About Sexual Assault, Rape and Sexual Battery What if You are Drugged and Sexually Assaulted?

Go to a safe place immediately and get help (police and medical care). If you go directly to a hospital, tell them what happened. In addition to diagnostic tests, ask the hospital to take an additional urine sample so that the police can analyze it for any substance that might have been used to either incapacitate you or remove your ability to give consent (even if the drug was self-ingested). Preserve evidence, even if you may not want to press criminal charges immediately. If the evidence is preserved, it can be used to strengthen the case if you later decide to prosecute.

Definitions

Rape

Rape is an act of penile/vaginal/ anal intercourse committed without the consent of the victim. Sexual penetration, however slight, completes the act of rape.

Sexual Battery

Sexual battery is the touching of an intimate part of another person without the other's consent for the purpose of sexual arousal.

Sexual Assault

Sexual assault includes rape, sexual battery, non-consensual sodomy, nonconsensual oral copulation, and non-consensual penetration by a foreign object, even a finger.

Consent

Consent means agreeing to an action freely, voluntarily and with knowledge of the nature of the act.

Having sex with a person under the age of 18 is illegal and may lead to serious legal consequences.

Additional Information:

- 99% of rape suspects are males, but men can also be victims of sexual assault. As a result, reporting is also an option for men.
- To report a rape or other sexual assault, contact your college police or Public Safety department if on campus. In an emergency, call 911. If the immediate emergency has passed, call your local police department.
- If you are unclear about a situation you or a friend have experienced and need advice, call the National Sexual Assault Hotline (800) 656-HOPE or your local police department's sex crimes unit.
- All universities in Los Angeles have counseling centers who can provide support and healing to sexual assault victims.

 In addition to arrest and sanctions under the criminal law, a student found to have sexually assaulted another person can also be subject to university disciplinary measures, including expulsion.

4 Ways to Reduce the Risk of Sexual Assault, Rape or Sexual Battery

- Remember: Alcohol can distort your judgment
- Drugs can distort your judgment.
- Say what you mean. Be up front. Be clear about your limits.
- It's NEVER too late to say "NO" or to leave if you are in a bad situation.

If You are Sexually Assaulted, Get Help.

If you are sexually assaulted, go to a safe place immediately and get help.

- Call the National Sexual Assault Hotline at (800) 656-HOPE. You will be connected to a counselor at your local rape crisis center who can provide you with options and support.
- Call the police or go to a hospital.

Preserve Evidence

Evidence may be collected and held even if you haven't decided whether to prosecute. If evidence is not preserved, prosecution may be difficult or impossible to attain. Even if some time has gone by, evidence may still be found in your

- clothing, sheets or bedding if they haven't been washed.
- Do not shower, brush your teeth or change your clothing.
- If you think you have been drugged, get a urine sample at the hospital.
- Have a doctor document your injuries.
- Even if you choose not to have a forensic sexual assault examination, you should see a doctor to be treated for sexually transmitted diseases and pregnancy. By law, however, the doctor is required to report the assault to the police.

Reporting

Reporting sexual assault is an important part of ending violence against women and ensuring that the attacker won't rape again! Whether or not to report sexual assault is a personal decision, however, remember that no one is allowed to have sex with another without legal consent.

Your Rights

In the State of California, a victim of sexual assault has the right to request that his or her name and address be kept confidential. You also have the right to a victim advocate and at least one other support person present with you at any follow-up interview with law enforcement, prosecutors and defense attorneys.

If you need help or need to report a sexual assault, call the National Sexual Assault Hotline at (800) 656-HOPE.

Campus-Related Sexual Violence Legislation

Federal legislation and California law describe the minimum commitment and effort universities must exhibit in their efforts to improve campus safety, prevent sexual assault and related crimes. and support victims of sexual violence. In addition, there are legal reporting requirements for registered sex offenders who attend, work, or live at a university campus. There are also mandated reporting requirements for healthcare practitioners. The following overviews are intended to provide a snapshot of certain sexual assault related laws and do not represent all legislation addressing sexual violence. To read the full text of the laws visit California Law, Legislative Counsel of California, and the Office of the Law Revision Counsel, U.S. House of Representatives. The University Legal Counsel should be consulted for information regarding the University's full legal obligations.

CSU Sexual Violence Executive Orders

CSU Executive Order 345:

Prohibition of Sexual Harassment Executive Order 345 requires each CSU campus to create and maintain an environment that is free from sexual harassment. This order also encourages the education of campus communities.

CSU Executive Order 993: Implementation of the California Campus Blueprint to Address Sexual Assault and Other Sexual Assault Legislation

Executive Order 993 outlines campus requirements for addressing sexual assault. It states "...At a minimum, each plan should include a: campus sexual assault policy that defines prohibited behavior and sanctions for violations; campus protocol for responding to reported assaults: coordinated victim services delivery system utilizing campus and/ or community-based resources: campus plan to prevent sexual assaults; set of policies and practices that address all campus community members (students, faculty, staff) as potential victims or perpetrators of sexual assault; and, plan to provide faculty and staff training...
